PERSONAL PROJECTS

Static Web pages

A static web design is a simple and straightforward approach to creating a web presence. It involves the creation of HTML, CSS, and possibly some JavaScript files that collectively define the structure, layout, and styling of a website. The content on these websites does not change dynamically based on user interaction

Text to Speech converter

This HTML file includes a text area for input, a button to trigger the conversion, and a simple JavaScript function (convertToSpeech) that uses the Web Speech API to convert the entered text into speech. Users can input their text into the text area, click the "Convert to Speech" button, and the browser will read the text aloud.
